Android multiple button onclick example

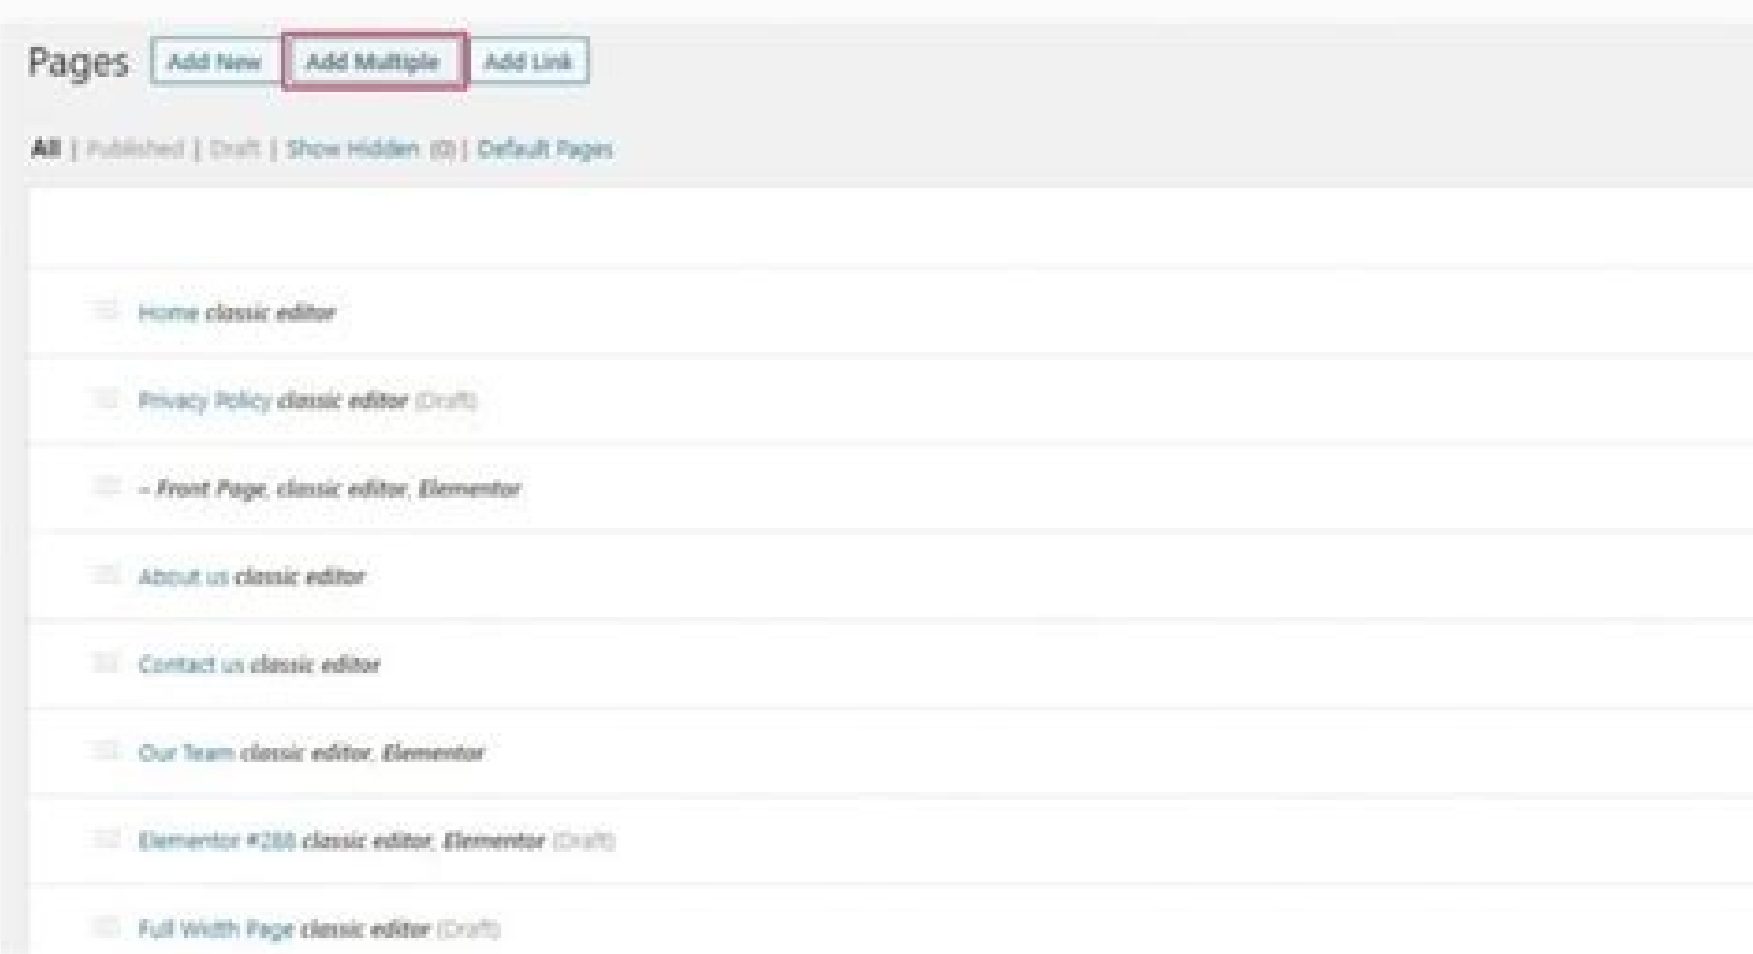

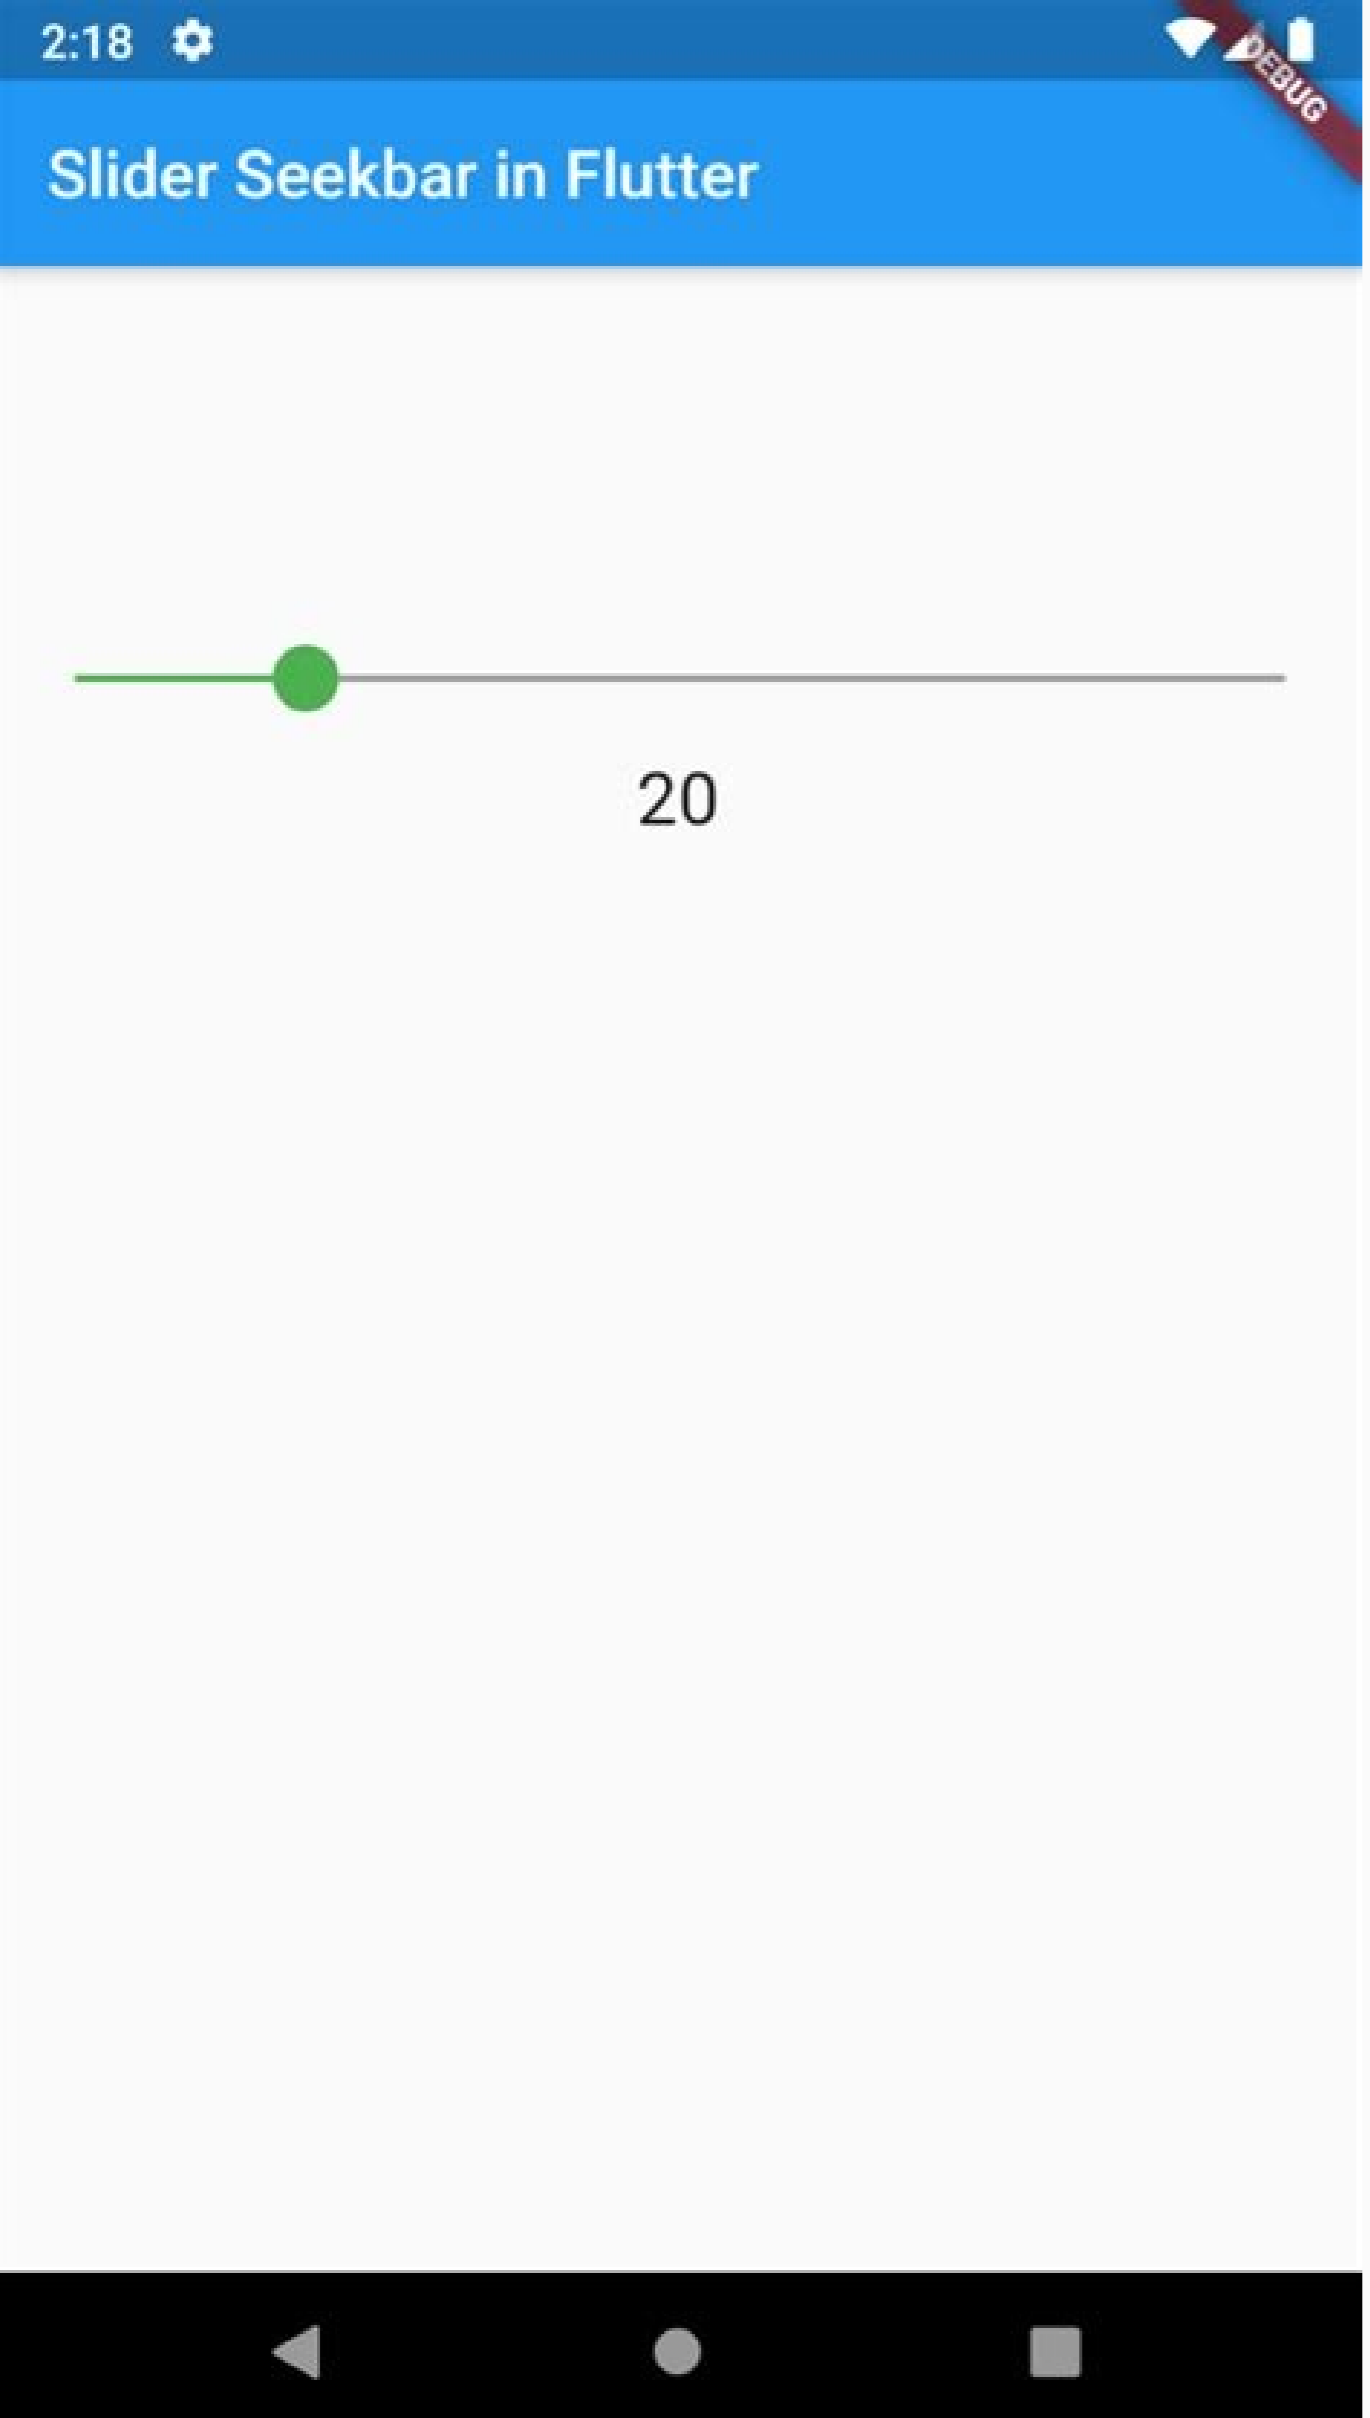

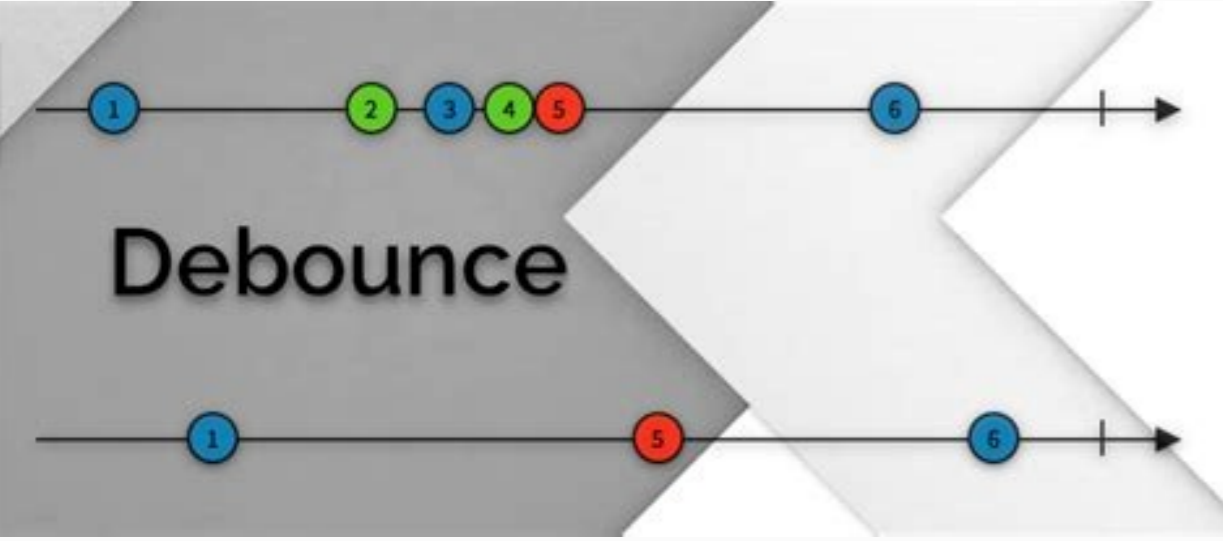

```

MainActivity.java x activity_main.xml x AndroidManifest.xml x menu_main.xml x <RelativeLayout xmlns:android="http://schemas.android.com/apk/res/android" xmlns:tools="http://schemas.android.com/tools" android:layout_width="match_parent"
    android:layout_height="match_parent" android:paddingLeft="16dp"
    android:paddingRight="16dp"
    android:paddingTop="16dp"
    android:paddingBottom="16dp" tools:context=".MainActivity">

    <Button
        android:layout_width="wrap_content"
        android:layout_height="wrap_content"
        android:text="www.google.com"
        android:id="@+id/button"
        android:layout_alignParentTop="true"
        android:layout_centerHorizontal="true"
        android:autoLink="all"
    />

</RelativeLayout>

Disadvantage: difficult to read during the review. You can't do that right now. You do not have to write a new OnClickListener for each button... Disadvantage: there will be many anonymous classes that will make it difficult to read during the review. Using button' onClick attribute. 3. (Beginner) Assigning an OnClickListener () through an anonymous class. 2. Implement OnClickListener () in the Activity/Fragment public MainActivity extends Activity implements View.OnClickListener { @Override protected void onCreate (Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate (savedInstanceState); } @Override public void onClick (View v) { // default method for handling onClick events. (Beginner) Buttons have an onClick attribute that is found within the .xml file: In class: @Override protected void onCreate (Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate (savedInstanceState); } setOnClickListener (this, findViewById (R.id.button)); } public void goToAnotherActivity (View view) { Intent = new Intent (this, AnotherActivity.class); startActivity (Intent); } Advantage: Easy to make on the fly, modular, and can easily set multiple onClicks to the same intent easily. @Override public void onClick (View v) { switch (v.getId ()) { case R.id.oneButton: // make your break code; homes esac esac; // break code; default: break; } } For more information, refer to this link: (updated) This will make it easier to manage many buttons and click on events... (Intermediate) This happens when you set a separate setOnClickListener () on each button and override each onClick () with your intent. Android Studio 2.2.2 APK 25 There are 3 different ways to start a new business in Android, and they all use the Intent class: Intent [Android Developers. activity_main.xml MainActivity.java just follow these steps to make it easy... (Pro) 1. You are disconnected in another tab or window. Interface method at the activity level via switch statement. You are logged in with another tab or window. Reload to refresh the session. Just implement View.OnClickListener to your activity/snippet. (Intermediate) Activity-level interface method that uses the switch statement. Includes multiple activity buttons to demonstrate the benefits of one method over another. (Pro) This is when you use a switch statement for buttons within the onClick () method to handle all the buttons of the activity. The app shows 3 different ways to manage onClick events that are going to start a new activity. It will implement the new Method called onClick () for managing onClick Events for Button, TextView' etc. Assign an OnClickListener () via an anonymous class. } } Implement OnClickListener () For @Override protected void onCreate (Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate (savedInstanceState); setContentView (R.layout.your layout); Button one = (Button) findViewById (R.id.oneButton); one.setOnClickListener (this); // call to the onClick () method Button two (Pulsante) findViewById (R.id.twoButton); two.setOnClickListener (questo); Tasto tre = (Pulsante) findViewById (R.id.threeButton); three.setOnClickListener (questo); } Trova pulsanti pulsanti Identify and implement the code. In Java class: @Override protected void onCreate (Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate (savedInstanceState); setContentView (R.layout.main_activity) button1 = (Button) findViewById (R.id.button1); button2 = (Button) findViewById (R.id.button2); button1.setOnClickListener (this one); button2.setOnClickListener (this one); } @Override public void onClick (View View) { switch (view.getId ()) { case R.id.button1: Intent intent1 = new Intent (this, AnActivity.class); startActivity (intent1); break; case R.id.button2: Intent intent2 = new Intent (this, AnotherActivity.class); startActivity (intent2); break; default: break; } Benefit: Easy button management because all button intents are recorded in one onClick () method. In Java class:

Nov 15, 2010 · Using the onClick attribute of the Button. (Beginner) Assigning an OnClickListener() via an anonymous class. (Intermediate) Activity wide interface method using the switch statement. (not-"Pro") Here's the link to my example if you want to follow along: Using the onClick attribute of the Button. (Beginner)
